

For Immediate Release

Jeff Langa Named New Fuji Chemical Industries Executive

BURLINGTON, NJ – Fuji Chemical Industries has appointed Jeff Langa as its new Director of Sales, Excipients, announced company President Yasuko Kuroda.

Langa brings more than 30 years of expertise in pharmaceutical and nutraceutical manufacturing, quality control, technical service, business management and product management. In his most recent position, Langa managed specialty excipient product lines within segments of both the pharmaceutical and nutraceutical markets for Downers Grove, IL-based distributor Univar, where he was responsible for an $80-million portfolio of specialty excipients.

Langa said he is “looking forward to managing and growing Fuji Chemical Industries’ full line of problem-solving excipients in North America for both the pharmaceutical and nutritional supplement markets, both of which are picking up the pace in innovating consumer health solutions.”

Yasuko Kuroda, president of Fuji Chemical Industries USA, Inc., commented, “I’ve known Jeff for many years and I am excited to welcome him at Fuji. His appointment is perfect timing as we are launching a new excipient, FujiSil.”

For more information, visit www.fujichemicalusa.com.

About Fuji Chemical Industries, Co. Ltd.

Fuji Chemical Industries Co., Ltd. is engaged in the production and sale of pharmaceutical products/synthesis, the manufacture of pharmaceutical and bulk pharmaceutical products, and the production and sale of food additives. It offers contract manufacturing services that include API manufacturing; functional APIs, such as drug intermediates; and drug products manufacturing. The company also provides excipients and drug delivery systems.